

Immigration

The immigration process is a necessary step for all employees and their families in international mobility if they are not citizens of the European Union

Immigration rules are particularly complex.

They vary according to the countries of origin, destination, and the family's specific situation. They are often amended by the legislator. As for the actual process, it is long and time-consuming for those responsible for the mobility.

Alceis proposes a detailed analysis of the situation for the obtaining of visas and residence cards for the family with regard to immigration laws.

From the beginning of the procedure to the obtaining of the residence permit, Alceis stays alongside the employee and his family, whatever the required status.

The person responsible for the mobility is informed in real time of the progress of the procedure via his secure online customer area.
